

THREE DAYS LATER FROM EUROPE.

ARRIVAL OF THE CANADA AT HALIFAX.

PEACE RUMORS CONTINUE.

NOTHING FROM THE CRIMEA OR ASIA.

Cotton and Breadstuffs Drooping.

Consols 88 1/8 to 88 3/4.

and, and, and.

The steamship Canada, Captain Stone, from Liverpool at 10 o'clock A. M., on Saturday the 23rd ult., arrived here at 12 1/2 o'clock to-day, and sailed at 3 30 P. M., with a stiff breeze from the southeast, accompanied with snow, for Boston, where she will be due early on Thursday morning.

The brings Liverpool dates of Saturday, the 23rd ult., three days later than those received by the Arago, at New York.

The steamship Washington, from New York, arrived off the coast of the 21st, and put back to Southampton, after landing the mails and passengers, as the ice prevented her reaching Bremen.

The news by this arrival is simply confirmatory of the previous advice, with the usual complement of peace rumors and speculations upon the result of Count Esterhazy's mission to St. Petersburg.

Frankfort papers publish an Imperial ukase authorizing the new Russian loan.

There is no news of importance from the Crimea and Asia, and in both places affairs were in statu quo.

A languid tone prevailed in the Liverpool cotton market, and prices, although not quite so low, were rather easier than at the departure of the Pacific.

The week's business was restricted to about 30,000 bales.

In breadstuffs but little speculative demand existed, and a slight decline upon the previous week's quotations had taken place.

Consols were a trifle lower than on the departure of the Arago, the closing rates for money and account being 88 1/8 to 88 3/4.

THE WAR.

STATE OF NEGOTIATIONS.

The present position of peace prospects is this:—It may be remembered that Austria made a suggestion of certain terms not known to the public, which the Austrian Cabinet considered might constitute a basis for pacific negotiations.

These suggestions Austria sent to Paris through the French Ministry at Vienna. The French government sent a copy of said suggestions to London. Much correspondence ensued between London and Paris, resulting in the original suggestions being sent back, altered by France and England, to Vienna.

The Austrian Cabinet expressed mortification that the suggestions were not adopted. More correspondence ensued, resulting in Austria agreeing to amend her terms, and the French government to modify the modified proposals. The proposition thus amended, was on Sunday, Dec. 16—was notified by the Arago—sent from Vienna in charge of Count Esterhazy to St. Petersburg.

The contents of this ultimatum are kept profoundly secret. If the war refuses, France and England threaten to continue the war, and Austria to cease diplomatic relations and afterwards to be governed by the course of events.

Simultaneously with the transmission of peace proposals to Russia, the Paris Monitor publishes the treaty entered into between the allies and Sweden, guaranteeing the existing limits of Sweden against Russian aggression.

As Russia does not at present threaten Sweden, this ultimatum is a cause for the rejection of the peace proposals. The terms of the treaty are very stringent. It is declared that the treaty is concluded to prevent every complication of a nature to trouble the balance of power in Europe.

By article 1st the King of Sweden engages himself not to cede to Russia, nor to exchange with her, nor allow her to occupy, any portion of the territory belonging to the crown of Sweden and Norway. He engages, moreover, not to cede to Russia any right of passage or fishing ground, or of any other nature whatsoever, of said territories, or of the coast of Sweden and Norway, and to reject any pretension Russia might raise to establish the existence of any of the above named rights.

Article second stipulates that, in case Russia should make any proposition to the King of Sweden, or any demand with a view to obtain either the cession or exchange of any portion whatever of the territory belonging to the crown of Sweden and Norway, or to permit to occupy certain points of said territory or the coast of fishing or passage rights, or of any other on those same territories, or on the coast of Sweden and Norway—the King of Sweden engages to communicate immediately such proposition to the Emperor of France and Queen of England; and they engage to provide Sweden with sufficient naval and military forces, with those of Sweden, to resist the claims or aggressions of Russia.

The nature, the importance, and the destination of the forces in question, shall, the case occurring, be decided by a common agreement between the three Powers.

A secret clause is appended to the treaty, providing for Russia eventually taking the field against Russia.

Vienna private correspondence intimates that the Austrian government declined an invitation made to it on the 7th of September to join Russia in a pacific intervention; also, that Napoleon received the invitation of Russia, conveyed by Baron Prokesch to Paris, to open negotiations with Austria, and that the Emperor, in the name of Austria, invited the Western Powers to re-open at Paris the peace conference of Vienna, recommending also that the guarantees shall be modified as the basis of negotiation, but that the third point of guarantee respecting Russian domination in the Black Sea should be modified.

Russia has not replied to the Austrian proposal, but has refused to the conference. Hence has arisen the theory that the Austrian Anglo-French proposal is merely to define the meaning of the third point, and that if an understanding be come to the Vienna Conference, so-called, will be reopened in Paris, in the middle of January. It is stated that the Swedish Ambassador at Vienna has formally refused to the Austrian proposal.

It is also stated that Count Stoeckelberg had brought to Vienna a Russian proposal for peace, in terms different from those proposed by the Allies. This, however, is doubtful.

The English government is said to have demanded an explanation from the Austrian government, as to the intention of Austria in reducing the Austrian army.

The Army Board of that country is selling no fewer than seventy thousand rifles. The present position of affairs may be said to be expressed. France is less placid and England less warlike than they seem.

The London Daily News says a majority of the French Cabinet think Austria will accept the terms proposed, and a majority of the English Ministry think not.

THE PRINCIPALITIES.

Rumor says that the projected conference for a settlement of the principality are indefinitely adjourned. Count Gortschakoff will assume the command of the Austrian army there.

THE PRINCIPALITIES.

A hurricane had occurred in the Crimea. The Tchernaya river had overflowed its banks, doing considerable damage.

There is nothing later than General Goltz's report of the 4th, saying that the Russians continued to be heavily from the north side, without doing much damage. The ground was covered with snow. Savings made as to be opened by the British army.

ASIA.

There are few additional particulars concerning the surrender of Kars, which took place on the 26th of November. On November 13th General Mouraviev summoned the garrison to surrender. General Williams held a council of war on the 14th, after the council the garrison sent a message to the Russian commander, offering to surrender, and asking for a cessation of hostilities, and for the evacuation of the fortress to be secured. General Mouraviev offered to grant an honorable capitulation, and allowed an English captain to go to Kars, to see the Russian commander, and to deliver to him the Russian terms. General Williams returned to the British camp, and reached Kars on the 15th. He then demanded an interview with Mouraviev for the 26th. By this time the Russian had no food, except some horse meat, for the sick in the hospital. Here the narrative breaks off, and we have no details of the surrender.

Private accounts, without date, (rather doubtful), say that Omer Pasha had driven in the Russians, and taken possession of Kars, and that the Russian army was retreating to attack the latter city, which was guarded by ten thousand Russians. Mouraviev had detailed a part of his force to oppose Omer. The Turks are said to have found 12,000 fords in Kars.

Great Britain.

Attention is entirely occupied in discussing the probabilities of peace. It is remarkable that the general public speak more in favor of carrying on the war than at any previous period. The Queen has sent a jeweled decoration to Miss Nightingale.

Heavy gales had prevailed during the night, and numerous casualties were reported on the coast. The Spanish ship Bravo, from Barcelona for Havre, was wrecked on the night of the 10th instant, off Gibraltar. Forty-five passengers were drowned, including seven ladies.

France.

A treaty of family and commerce between France and Persia is concluded, and an envoy has left Paris to exchange ratifications with the Shah. General Canrobert will be named Marshal of France.

Spain.

The Cubans have sent a general against the impolicy of laying additional taxes on colonial produce, as the new tariff proposes.

Holland.

The first steamer of the New York line, the Belgica, was formally baptized at Antwerp on the 15th by the Cardinal Archbishop of Malines and a crowd of clergymen.

Denmark.

Denmark has requested the governments interested to adjourn the conference on the Sound dues. A Copenhagen letter says that only two States have as yet pronounced in favor of Denmark's view—namely, Russia and Prussia. The Russian Finance Minister seems to have since stated that he could not raise the large sum required to capitulate, and there are preferred remaining the Russian view. The London Standard says that the United States ships pass without toll, as not only public ships, but also a title to distinction. We deem it proper that those who love the "more perfect union" of the constitution, and venerate the sovereignty of the States, as enshrined in the Declaration of Independence, who adhere to the principles of the immortal Declaration of Independence, and of the statute to secure religious toleration, should unite with the friends of the Union and the vindication of sound principles of government.

Turkey.

The new ministry under Redschid Pacha is to be reorganized.

Greece.

The new ministry cultivate friendly relations with the allies.
